

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is a substrate that includes a promoter primer that can be extended to form a transcribable template nucleic acid; and a capture probe. Typically, the promoter primer and the capture probe are non-complementary, and the capture probe can specifically bind to a target nucleic acid. The substrate can be used to amplify and detect one or more target nucleic acids.

20728585.doc